This Part is for the management of the conduct of Board and Committee Members that does not meet the reasonable community expectation of the conduct of Board and Committee Members. It deals with conduct that does not, and is not likely to, constitute a breach of Part 4 - Misconduct or criminal matters such as those contained in Appendix A to this document.

Robust debate and difference of opinion within the Board or Committee that is conducted in a respectful manner is not a breach of this Part.

It is intended that the Board will adopt a process for the handling of alleged breaches of this Part.

This process will be reviewed every four years, within 12 months of Local Government elections (and typically a new Board commencing).

General Behaviour

- Show commitment and discharge duties conscientiously.
- Act in a way that generates community trust and confidence in the Authority.
- Act in a reasonable, just, respectful and non-discriminatory way when dealing with people.
- Show respect for others if making comments publicly.
- Ensure that personal comments to the media or other public comments, on Authority Board or Committee decisions and other matters, clearly indicate that it is a private view, and not that of the Board or Committee.

- Actively seek to advance the best interests of the Authority.
- Deal with information received in the capacity as Board and Committee Members in a responsible manner.

Complaints

- Any person may make a complaint about a Board or Committee Member under the Behavioural Code.
- Complaints about behaviour alleged to have breached the Behavioural Code should be brought to the attention of the Chairperson or Chief Executive Officer.
- Complaints must be in writing.

- Complaints against the Chairperson are to be made to the Chief Executive Office who will determine the appropriate course of action.
- A complaint may be investigated and resolved in any manner which the Board deems appropriate in its process for handling alleged breaches of this Part. This can include, but is not limited to a mediator or conciliator, the Local Government Governance Panel, a regional governance panel or an independent investigator.
- A complaint may be considered within this process to be trivial, vexatious or frivolous, and accordingly not investigated.
- A failure of a Board or Committee Member to cooperate with the Board's process for handling alleged breaches of this Part may be referred for investigation under Part 4.
- A failure of a Board or Committee Member to comply with a finding of an investigation under this Part, may be referred for investigation under Part 4 (Misconduct).
- Repeated or sustained breaches of this Part by the same Board or Committee Member may be referred, by resolution of the Board, to the relevant authority as a breach of Part 4 (Misconduct).

4. MISCONDUCT

Failure by a Board or Committee Member to comply with this Part constitutes misconduct. The provisions within this Part may refer to statutory matters under the Local Government Act 1999. Any breach of these provisions will be investigated under that legislation.

Any person may report an alleged breach of this Part to the Chairman, the Chief Executive Officer, the Ombudsman, the Electoral Commissioner (for alleged breaches of Code 3.8) or the Office for Public Integrity. Reported alleged breaches of this Part may be referred to the Ombudsman for investigation under Section 263 of the Local Government Act 1999, by the Chief Executive Officer or by the Independent Commissioner Against Corruption, where he or she so determines.

A report from the Ombudsman that finds a Board or Committee Member has breached this Part must be provided to a public meeting of the Board. The Board must pass resolutions, that give effect to any recommendations received from the Ombudsman, within two ordinary meetings of the Board following the receipt of these recommendations.

An investigation under Part 4 of this Code does not preclude an investigation being launched, for Board Members, as a potential breach of the criminal matters listed in Appendix A to this document.
